

I, myself, as a consumer and merchant, strongly support UglyRipe's exemption from the Florida Tomato Committee. These tomatoes are the best tasting tomatoes I have ever purchased that didn't come from local home garden. In winters past I have mail-ordered the UglyRipe Tomatoes for myself but it is expensive and time consuming to do so. It is truly a shame that the FTC is preventing consumers from the opportunity to purchase this excellent tasting product from a local grocery store, when the winter tomatoes now offered are so tasteless. So please take my support into consideration when your ruling is made in this matter. Thank you.

George Van Beek
Voice Network Analyst
Save-A-Lot Foods
T:314.592.9300oab.
F:314.592.9621